Check Assist Names Trina Fretwell as Product Manager

(PENSACOLA, Florida – January 16, 2013) Check Assist announced today the promotion of Trina Fretwell to Product Manager. In her new role, Ms. Fretwell will be instrumental in directing the design and development of Check Assist's products and solutions.

"We are fortunate to have Trina on our team. Her industry knowledge and depth of understanding related to our customers' needs will enable her to excel in her new role as Product Manager," stated John Kachaylo, Executive Vice President.

"A high priority for us is evolving our highly successful portfolio of products into a cohesive solution set, and Trina's experience and expertise will be integral to developing and executing our ongoing product development road map," added Kachaylo.

Trina Fretwell began her relationship with Check Assist in 2008 and has served in many roles within the organization. Most recently she was responsible for the company's web development efforts. She holds a B.S. degree in Information Technology from the University of West Florida.

"It's an incredible opportunity for me as well as an exciting period in the company's history, and I feel privileged to be able to contribute at such a meaningful level," said Fretwell.
